

Conflict of Interest Disclosure Form for The Journal of Nutrition
Supplement Coordinators

Guidance for Supplement Coordinators:

The integrity of The Journal of Nutrition (JN), its authors, and its publisher, the American Society for Nutrition (ASN), is best served by full disclosure of any potential conflicts of interest on the part of supplement sponsors and coordinators. Therefore, ASN policy requires that supplement coordinators disclose to the Society prior to publication, any conflict of interest or any appearance of a conflict of interest which could exist as a result of their association with the proposed publication. A conflict of interest includes, but is not limited to:

- any significant financial interest in a company/supplement sponsor,
- a current grant, contract or subcontract, or consulting agreement with the supplement sponsor,
- employment by supplement sponsor,
- financial interest in a product or procedure that is mentioned in an article included in the publication,
- receipt of compensation from the supplement sponsor for services performed as supplement coordinator ,
- compensation from supplement sponsor for attending, speaking at or organizing a meeting or symposium,
- compensation from supplement sponsor for organizing, writing, editing or reviewing a manuscript, collection of manuscripts, supplement publication, book or other published work,
- holding stocks or shares in supplement sponsor or other organization that may gain or lose financially from the information included in supplement publication; and
- acting as an expert witness on the topic of the supplement publication.

The following footnotes will be included on all supplement manuscripts: (1) Statement of supplement publication and identification of supplement coordinator(s) and supplement editor; (2) Supplement coordinator disclosure statement and supplement editor disclosure statements and (3) Author disclosure statement. Examples are provided below:
